

Tampa General Hospital is committed to providing excellent and compassionate health care. As a leading medical center in Florida we want to make sure your pain is well controlled.

Learning to manage your postoperative pain increases your comfort, promotes healing and speeds recovery.

During your hospital stay we want to make sure that your pain is always addressed and well controlled. Our hospital staff will always do everything they could to help you with your pain.

Please help us help you! Become an active participant in your pain management!

How?

Rate your pain and effectively communicate it to you nurse.

Ask your nurse for a list of your pain medications prescribed by your doctor.

Ask for pain medications before pain escalates and becomes more difficult to control.

If your current medications fail to control your pain, then you need to be reevaluated by your primary team.

Our Inpatient Pain Management Staff is ready to assist the admitting physician with managing pain difficult to control.

The Integrative Medicine Service is available and complements the mainstream medical care by addressing the physical and emotional symptoms, carefully tailored for the individual.

Patient Representative Service will always address your needs and help solve problems.

If you receive a patient satisfaction survey after your visit to Tampa General Hospital, please fill it out. Your responses help us improve the care we provide.
